Rajah Brooke's warning of danger to the freedom of Sarawak in his last public statement has roused great interest here. The "Nation," edited by H. W. Msesinghan, has an article on it this week which contains the following :- "The worst enemies of such a country's independence and integrity are not foreign Governments, but the concessionaires, who claim the land and produce, reduce the natives to the condition of 'contract labourer' or slaves, and regard the country not as a trust for the benefit of the inhabitants but as a source of wealth, to be tapped for the luxury of a few idle people in European keep the public interested in the line till he can unlad. It is a danger we calling himself Ananda something or other see wherever we touch tropical produce and native labour-the danger of the concessions worked in the sole but the cult has grown since then to such interest of those who make haste to proportions that the Buddhist Society of be rich. We do not want any more Congo -candale, whether Delgian or Great Britain and Ireland has established French. We do not want any from of the 'servical' system of Augola and an Thome. Still less do we want another Putamayo Company, no matter what names of lords and courtiers might stand on its "In averting the general fate of concessions from his excellently governed little state, we need not say that we should stand by the Rajah to the utmost of our power. The protection of Sarawak was, we think, transferred a few years ago from the Foreign to the Colonial Office, and if any such danger is now impending it is Mr Harcourt's duty to investigate it and give "The Raish himself is evidently apprehensive. He hopes to counter the peril by creating a council in London to watch over his country's interests, to act as trustees of invested money, advisers in financial affairs, and upholders of the State's independence. He proposes to form this council of old inhabitants of Sarawak, and no doubt the old inhabitants who have faithfully served at bis side - men like Mr C. A. Bapfylde-would best form the majority as long as they survive. But we should suggest the addition of such wellknown administrators, friends of natives, and enemies of concessionaires as: Sir

Godfrey Lagden or Sir Harry Johnston. "Under a council built up on these lines the true interests of Sarawak.  distinct from the pocket interests of a few speculatirs, would be safeguarded. At the least, the council would issue warnings upon the approach of danger, and one of the worst perils of concessions is that they are prepared in the dark, perhaps with the connivance of some interested official, and are then let loose upon their kelpless victims as " established facts" which can no longer nected with the Rayal house for many be averted or overthrown,"

THE STRATEGIC IMPORTANCE OF HONGKONG.

The following extract is taken from an article entitled "Imperial Defence" by Col. C. E. Callwell, C.B., in the "United.

In the previous article reference was made to naval repairing and coaling stations and to the defended ports which offer refuge to merchant shipping in the time of war; and it was pointed out that the British Empire as a matter of fact possesses such stations in every see. But a glance at any map of the world will serve to show that some of these stations are extremely isolated. That is the case, for instance, with Bermuda, with Gibraltar, with Malta, with Adeu, with Singapore, with Mauritius, and with Hongkong. On the other hand, Halifax, Simons Bay and Capa Town (the two in some respects almost form one single station from the defence point of view). Durban, Bombay, and the important harbours of Australia and New Zealand, are all on the fringe of extensive territories forming part of the Empire and they cannot therefore be called isolsted. Where such a station is isolated it obviously especially invites hostile attack from overses, and it must in consequence be very efficiently fortified and must be provided with a garrison strong enough to maintain itself unaided for a considerable time. But there is also 1035 another point to be remembered in this connection.

> The naval and military importance of those stations varies considerably is different cases, and to understand why this is so it will be well to look at the question from the enemy's point of view. The aim that an enemy with serious designs against the Empire will have in mind will be, it possible, to gain command of the sea-to gain command locally if it be impracticable to gain it generally. Warships stand in need of dockyards and of naval establishments where repairs can be effected and where they can replenish ammunition, and so on, As a matter of fact, however, only certain of our coaling stations provide these facilities and are naval bases in the true sense of the word. Thus Hongkong is a naval station, while Singapore, Colombo, and Aden are not naval stations; an enemy would therefore have far more to gain by seizing Hongkong than he would by seizing the other stations, and the consequence is that a place like Hongkoug requires to be especially strongly defended. For, supposing that Hongkong were captured, or that its dockyard and naval establishments were destroyed, our floating forces in those waters would be in a sense crippled, even if they had not suffered otherwise. Supposing, furthermore, that our fleet in those waters had met with disaster, then any naval reinforcements that might be sent from other seas to recover meriting com mand in this quarter would find no base when they arrived, and they would inevitably be very seriously hampered in then operations in consequence. A defended port which is only supposed to provide coal supplies and to serve as a refuge for merchant shipping does not, on the other hand, offer nearly so tempting a bait to an enemy. It is all very well for cruisers to harry shipping on the high sens; it is a different thing for them to attempt similar operations against shipping which is in harbour under the guns of batteries; the ordinary commerce-destroying cruiser has little protection against artillery fire and it may come badly to grief if it approaches within range of even comparatively light artillery on shore. That does not, of course, apply to battleships, but battleships have some thing else to do in time of war than damaging the enemy's merchant ships, unless these happen to come in their way. It is a fairly safe assumption that defended ports which do not constitute naval stations need only "anticipate cruiser attack; but important naval stations, such as Malta or Hongkong, are, as we have seen, really worth attacking if there be reasonable prospect of attack proving successful without excessive damage to the attacking vesséls, and anch stations should be strong enough to withstand assault by a floet of

An interesting link with the Battle of Waterloo was severed on the 14th Aug. when Mrs Drew, of Ardencaple House, Garelochshire, died within 17 days of complotting her 101st year. Born on August 31, 1811, Mrs Drew had lived in six reigns -George III, George IV., William IV. Victoria, Edward VIL, and George When she was a child of nearly four Wa terloo was fought. THE LATE GENERAL NOGI.

The Will. Farewell Letters and Death

The friends and relatives of General Count Nogi, fearing that the general publie may misunderstand the motives which prompted his tragic end, have consulted together and have made a statement for publication. The document is a long one, and gives a resume of the family history ..£ 365 000 of the deceased General, showing that he is descended from the Sasaki family in Omi Province. Count Nogi was, the third son of Maretugu Juro Nogi, a samurai of the Choshiu Clau who was an authority on Chinese classics and ancient military practices. He was a man strong character and very strict in the upbringing of his children, being selected as instructor of Motchashi Mori, the heir Kusla Lumpur, F.M.S. to the feudal lord of Choshu Clan, and his brother Heirokuro Mori. Countess Shidzuko Nogi was the fourth daughter MESSES JARDINE, MATHESON & Co., of Sadayuki Yuchi, a samurai of Kagoshima Clan, and was a woman of very lovable character and devoted to her husband: General Nogi committed suicide on the second floor of his house at Shinsaka-cho, Akasaka, Tokio, in a room Every description of Banking and Exchange business transacted, and Stocks which is of foreign construction, but and Shares bought and sold on account of furnished with tatami. A desk was constituents. Letters of Credit granted on placed in a window facing the Imperial agents and Correspondents all over the Palace, and on it was a picture of Meiji. Tenno, in front of which was placed a INTEREST allowed on Current Accounts sakaki bush. The fareweil letters, deathat 2% per annum on the Daily Balance and on Fixed Deposits at rates which may songs, and will of Count Nogi were alsocarefully laid on this_table. Count Nogi. sented in front of the desk, committed lurakiri first and then cut his throat from right to left. Countess Nogi, seated beside her husband, also facing the Im-INTERNATIONAL DANKING perial Palace, stabbed herself to the heart with a dagger. She was dressed in full mourning costume, and no disorder either HEAD OFFICE: 60, Wall Street, New York. in the apparel of the deceased or in the room was to be seen. The intentions and desires of General Nogi will be clearly understood from the will, which was made public on the 16th first. It is as follows:-

doned for my presumption in selecting the date of the Obsequies for my own death, but I have waited for an opportunity to die ever since I lost the Colours of my Regiment during the Civil War in I have received from His Majesty hus been indeed more than I have deserved, and I have truly been bonoured with great favours. I am, however, getting old and infirm and cannot live much longer to serve the Emperor. At the periods, at rates which may be ascertained time of His Majesty's death I firmly de-MAILS and TELEGRAPHIC REMIT. cided to commit suicide. 44 (2) When my two sons were taken, LETTERS OF OREDIT and DRAFTS away from me during the war, my regranted on all the principal cities in the spected seniors and intimate friends sugnested that I should adopt a son, but am not in favour of this plan of prolonging a family name, and have five quently spoken of the evils of the prac-COMMERCIAL LETTERS OF CRE tice. I have been honoured with a peer-PURCHASE and SALE of Stocks and age, and were I to adopt a son he would succeed to it, but I have no lear that the TRAVELLERS OHECKS sold and honourable name of my House will be opinion, infrinces upon the lieavenly law and I will not do such a thing, especially as we have some relations who will look after the graves of our succestors. The entate at Shinsaks-one I bequeath to Akasaka ku or Tokio shi. (8) I have written as follows concern-sabres as shall be deemed suitable for each by Colonel Tsukada, who is requested to attend to the distribution. Shidzuko knows Colonel Tsukada served me most faithfully during the wars, and she should confide in him fully.

(5) The articles which have been granted to me by His Majesty, including those which have been given by Imperial Highnesses, I bequeath to the Peers School, appointing Mr. Matsui and Mr. Itani to attend to this.

(6) Of my books I wish the Peers' School to have the first selection, and such as are left are to be given to the Chofu library.

(7) The wills of my father, my grandfather and my great-grandfather, which set forth the history of the Negi family should be encefully preserved, and handed to the family of Marquis Sasuki, or to the Susaki Temple, with a request that Tydeus, P. Canal O. Sept. 17. they goard them.

(8) The articles which are on exhibition in the Military Museum I bequeath to the Museum, as this is the best way to preserve the memory of the Nogi family. (9) Shidzuko is getting old and, Ishi bayashi being a remote place, she may feel lonely, and may fall sick, so this estate is given to Shusaku, and Shidzuko should live in the house at Nakano, if she desires to do so.

(10) I have written Baron Ishiguro as to how my body should be treated, and have said that it should be given to a suitable medical school. It will be sufficient if my hair, nails and teeth be buried. The gold watch given to me by His Majesty I give to Tamaki. Shono suke, but he is prohibited from wearing it. Den of Glamis, A. H.K. O. SIR EDWIN DURNING-LAWRENCE'S COMMERCIAL. RETORT COURTEOUS.

Writing to the editor of "The Referec." Sir Edwin says: Sir,-In your issue of August 11 four correspondents have rashly ventured to write about what they do not understand. With respect to Mr. Brabner, I, in your issue of August 7, simply "wiped the floor " with him, am I so often have done in times past, by exposing his limitless ignorance with might have added that the word is altogether omitted from the Psaltery of the Book of Common Prayer. Now that he has become the laughing-stock; of his friends, and is prostrate upon the ground in a very uncomfortable position, he seems desirous of giving further evidence of his folly by a silly exhibition of childish buffoonery which is beneath con-

With respect to Mr. Ringwood-Peach ie. as he has so often previously done once more displays his ignorance with respect to the meaning of the thirty-third degree of Masonry. No doubt he is not the Grand Masters and Past Grand Masters of Masonry are not aware that the number of Masons holding the thirtythird degree was limited to nine until 1910. In various old books on Masonry extending very far back, A.D. 287. given as the date when St. Alban obtained from Diocletian the Charter of Masonry. As the late Sir Gaspar Pindon Clarke, who was one of the nine holding the thirty-third degree in Masonry, knowing that I was "informed," quite frankly confessed to me, Bacon was the real founder of Esoterio (that his modern) Freemasonry. The number 287 is made use of in the 1623 folio of the plays, and the year 1910 is 287 years after the issue of the plays in 1623. Accordingly that year, 1910, the number of Masons holding the thirty-third degree was increased from nine to thirty-three. The holders of the third-third degree have always known Bacon's secrets. (Thirty three spells Bacon-B, A, C, O, N, equals 33.) Who was George Eliot? The answer is Miss Evens (Mrs. Lewis). Who was Shakespeare? The answer is Francis Bacon. By Shakespears we mean the author of the plays, not the drunken, illiterate little tradesman of Stratfordupon-Avon, who could neither read nor write. Like poor Mr. Brahner, Mr. Peach also exhibits his boundless wan of knowledge of the literature of the period. Bacon's work was intended to affect, and it did affect, not England only, but the whole of the civilised world. The revealing bitle-pages which prove to demonstration that Bacon was Shakes pears are not found in the English, bu in the Latin books printed abroad. It the "Shakespeare, Myth." I reproduce the all-revealing title-pages of the De Augmentis of 1645 and of the Henricus Septimus (Henry VII.) of 1642, while in my "Bacon is Shakespeare " I reproduce the still more revealing title-page of the Cryptographise, which Bacon brought out under the pseudonym of Gustavus Selenus (the Man in the Moon) in 1624 the year after the issue of the Shakespears plays of 1623, in order to form a key to the cyphers contained in those

FREIGHT CIRCULAR. Mesers Lamke and Rogge, in their week ly Freight Circular dated September 28 1912. state :--

Since our last report was written on the 14th instant the freight market has continued very firm all round, and as will be seen by the fixtures, in some cases the respect to "Selah," concerning which I highest rates known for a long time past have been secured owing to the scarcity of tonnage offering for either prompt or for I ward delivery. The prospects for future business are promising, and as it is confidently expected that with the Yangtze sesson further advanced an all round improvement will set in. The general tendency appears to favour owners.

Saigon/Hongkong :- Regular liners are now booking what little is offering at ? conts per picul. Saigon reports that stagnation in business has at last caused holders of stocks to give way, and that as much as a dollar per picul; but even with alone in his want of knowledge, for oven this drop, prices are still prohibitive of business. As regards the new crop, prospects, so far, are encouraging. Rice exports during this season amount to total 486,239 tons compared with 585,672 tons same period last year. Quotation stands for October shipment $6.49, per picul f.o.b. against $7.09 same time last year.

Saigon/Philippines:-From enquiries put on our market, as reported in our last issue, a few fixtures have resulted at much improved rates, 32 cents being paid for 32,000 picula to Manila, and 38 cents for 25,000 piculs for Cebu.

Saigon Japan :- Exports during the month of August amounted to 9538 tons. Saigon/Java :- Nothing doing.

Java-Rice Crop :- Reports have it that the paddy crops in Java have been visited by insect pests, and furthermore the great drought which prevailed in Central and East Java in June had a very unfavourable influence, both on the crops resped and on those still standing. The opinion expressed that Java will have to buy considerable quantity from Rangoon before

Java-Outward.—The local sugar market is very firm, and several "outsiders" have found r. ady takers at between 43/42 cents

Newchwang/Cauton :-- Charterers anticipating some difficulty in securing tonnage for their dates required when the season draws to a close have already gone in for onnage engagementa.

Timecharter :- S.S. Paklat has been taken up on Timecharter for a short term at $7500 per-month, and the sis. Haldis under Timecharter to The Siamese S. Co. has been taken off the Bangkok/Hongkong run and rechartered for 3 months at $7500 per month to trade hence to Java and back. It is reported that some boats have already been taken up for coasting trade for a long term, details are kept Coal freight for Japan :- The difficulty Catfish -- Chik Yu in obtaining tonnage is still prevailing, and Codfish, Mun Yu in consequence very little business was done in chartering.

Fixtures reported :- Moji/Hongkong Cuttle Fish,-Muk Yu $2.20, Hongay/Swatow $2.50/$2.40, Port Dab, Sa Mang Yu Courbet/Canton $2.90, Haiphong/Canton Dace, Tong Mei Lun ... $3 and Hongay/Penang $3.25 per ton. HONGEONG, MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1912.

CONTRACTS WITH LOCAL AUTHORITIES.

must pay special attention to the requirements of the law. No matter in what capacity the party may be concerned, it is equally important to make sure that the law is observed. Indeed, so vital are the interests at stake that it should be made a rule never to enter into any contract with a local without consulting solicitor. The tollowing facts culled from an article on the subject in Engineering" may serve to draw attention to the importance of this Kennebac and was killed. matter.

It is an ancient principle of English. law that, as a general rule, a corporation is not bound by contract unless that contract is under the seal of the corporation. The reason for this is said to be that, if contracts could be made indiscriminately in other ways, there might be limit to the liability of the corporation, which was become bound by the acts and deeds of irresponsible members. Further, it is anid that in the case of a municipal await trial. The number was 54, 32 of authority or local council the strictest whom were arrested in one gambling den. formality is necessary in the interests of ratepayers.

There are certain exceptions to the rule that the contract of a corporation must be under seal. In the first place, if the acts done are such as the corporation is appointed to do, the seal need not be used. Thus a trading corporation may draw bills without affixing their seal. Similarly, if the acta are of a trivial nature, or of frequent occurrence, or require to be done on the spot by one of the corporation's servants, the seal may be dispensed with For instance, a company incorporated under the Companies Act 1862, for the working of collieries. contracted with an engineer for the opium in a seck on the Prays. At the to seemed very oppur of his erection of a spumping-engine and pischiners for that purpose, and paid by the company against the engineer for a broach of contract in refusing to deliver the engine and machinery if was decided that the action was maintainable, although the contract was not under the seal of the company. Again, when the contract falls within the purposes for which the corporation was created, and has been executed, if the corporation have received the goods or accepted the benefit of the contract, it has been held that the objection that the contract is not-under seal is then no longer tenable. Thus the guardians of a union gave a verbal order for iron gates for the union workhouse. The gates were supplied and used for the purpose. It was decided that the contract for the gates was incident to the purposes for which the ghardians. were incorporated, and was, therefore, within the exception to the general rule requiring the contracts of corportions to be under seal. In Clarke c. Cuckfield Union (21 L.J., Q.B. h avily-349), Mr Justice Wightman said: "Wherever the purposes for which a LILIA BELEVA RODRIGUES, vem por este corporation is created render it necessary that work should be done, or goods supplied to carry such purposes into effect, as in the case of the guardians of a poor-law union, and orders are given at a board regularly constituted having general authority to make contracts for goods or work necessary for which the corporation

This little one act piece, with its, two characters forming the entire cast may be appropriately termed a comedy by reason of the fact that some of the passages expressed are profocative of smile; but it might be better termed a dialogue, for it is merely a conversation between two people-an aristocratic lady J. S. Lloyd ct. Warburton b Reid in the marriage market and an unconventional and not particularly attractive millionaire desirous of a well-connected wife. The lady is quite willing to become the wife of the millionaire in the usual conventional manner-for the sake of his money, of course. He, however. makes his proposal in so obnoxious a manner that he is very properly sourned by the lady. As the conversation proceeds, the millionaire's sincerity is so obvious that, despite the crudity of his remarks, the lady accepts the offer. The play is, of course, a skit on the mariage de convenance. The local amateurs presented the respective parts-Mrs. Wor cester being quite a convincing Lady Aline de Vaux. The millionaire, Mr. Harrison Crockstead, was very ably played by Mr. W. Siegler. Both, in fact revealed considerable histrionic talent, expressing their "lines" and moving about the stage in an easy graceful manner not glways attained by amateurs.

This little play was so beautifully S. Dodwell ct. Bird b Sayer staged by Mr. Slegler that hearty and spontaneous applause was given on the. rising of the curtain.

The third and last item of the programme was the performance or presentstion of the mysterious "Impressions in Light, and Sound" by Mr. Denman Fuller, and Mr. W. Siegler. Probably gone into the Pacific, caused a lot of most of the sudience had as vague an idea at the conclusion of what the "Impressions " really comprised as they may have had at the beginning but all must -as all in fact did-have greatly enjoyed the beauty of the conceptions pro sented, the weird stmosphere in which they were enwrapped, together with the music that accompanied the perform ance. Briefly, the performance consisted of electric light offects sided by artistic stage properties. SIGNING THE COVENANT.

Saturday morning in Beliast was like a Sunday except for the decorated streets and the wealth of Union Jacks and orange emblems.

Sir Edward Carson signed the Covenant with a silver pen on a table covered with the Union Jack. Crowds proceeded to the services arranged by the churches, the greatest being held in the historic Ulster Hall. This was attended by Sir Edward Carson, and the standard bearer of the Boyne flag, the Lord Mayor and Members of the Corporation. Peers of the Realm, Members of Parliament, etc.

THE ORDER OF PRECEDENCE.

After the service Sir Edward Curceeded to the City Hall to sign the Covenant. Lord Londonderry signed second, and after him came the heads of the Protestant churches, Peers, Members of Parliament, officials, and others. The ceremony of signing the Covenant was carried out with the utmost solemnity and dignity. The Members of the Corporation attended in their scarlet robes.

At the conclusion of the ceremony, Sir Edward Carson and other prominent gentlemen associated with the movement marched in procession through the streets thronged with cheering crowds to the Ulster Reform Club, where he was entertained to
